Opportunity to Purchase Patent Portfolios

As Asian companies continue to be targets of US patent infringement lawsuits, those Asian companies are seeking to build their patent portfolios for defensive purposes. Such portfolio building is being done by purchases of patent portfolios rather than internally generating patents.

Next month in California, Ocean Tomo, a world renown patent auctioneer, will be conducting a patent auction of patent portfolios covering a wide range of technologies. Those portfolios cover mobile devices, wireless, semiconductors, cloud computing, RFID and more.

Interested buyers should commence their due diligence as soon as possible. In-person meetings with the patent owners or their agents can be conducted at the meeting site.

Shimokaji & Associates is available to represent non-competing, qualified buyers at the auction. Potential buyers should contact the firm with an indication of interested technology.
